Destiny is something we can all look forward to. As we begin another year at high school, the future seems even closer. With dreams turning into reality the time is flying by. Is it our dedication to excellence that causes us to “keep moving” at uncontrollable speed, or is it the drive within us for success? No matter what the reason, we’re all going somewhere.

Seniors enjoy their last week of float construction.

Seniors "Rock" Once Again

The class of '94 was once again victorious in the float competition with their float that "Rocked The Cats". This helped to kick off the annual Homecoming parade. The town helped to support the Bulldogs by putting many entries in the parade. All classes showed great spirit by working together to make the parade a success. Congratulations to the freshmen on a big second place finish. This year the seniors went out in style with a Homecoming to remember.

The freshmen football team enjoyed their first taste of the Homecoming parade.

All done up, Angie Menser enjoys crazy hair day.

Spirit Shines Through

Everyone had a blast supporting BHS. We just hope we can all get the Elmer's glue out of our hair. From crazy hair day to college sweatshirt day, spirit week proved extremely successful. Many people showed their Bulldog pride. The week started out with slob day. Tuesday was hat and sucker day. On Wednesday, people searched through their parents' closet to bring out a style from their favorite decade. Thursday was crazy hair and college sweatshirt day. To finish the week off, we supported the Dogs with blue and white day.

The week's festivities were closed with the annual Powder Puff game. The competition between the seniors and juniors was fierce. Towards the end of the first half, Kathy Raver scored a goal to give the seniors the lead. Becky Narwold then scored a goal for the juniors to tie the game.

Bulldogs Clench A Victory

Homecoming was exceptionally exciting due to the first Bulldog Homecoming victory in five years. After a constant battle in the first half, the Bulldogs came out on top 17-14 against Franklin County. The game came down to the wire when senior Corey Bischoff caught an interception and scored a touchdown to claim the game, 23-21.

The half-time festivities included a show by the band and the crowning of the court. The band wore the dress of the sixties, and provided the sound of the decade. The court paraded across the field and awaited the moment of crowning. The awards preceded as follows; Eric Vicars, king; Chantel Shane, queen; Jonathan Walsman, prince; Kelly Moeller, princess.

When I Grow Up

I Want It All

Remember when you were five and you thought you were going to be a cowboy during the day and a Sesame Street character by night? As time went by, most of us lost those wild ambitions. However, some students at BHS are still full of those so-called crazy dreams and will stop at nothing to reach the stars. Whether it's saving the world, or getting a record deal, the students on this page are taking risks every day to see that nothing pushes them off track. Why did the rest of us lose all our hope? Maybe everyone should look at the future through younger eyes because pretty soon, there won't be any cowboys left.

As every high school band member does, the first song that Scott Hoffbauer, Brandon Vohland, Jason Walston, and Gus Cockefair learn is the fight song.

7he Fashion's Back

But Is The State Of Mind?

The 1990's are beginning to resemble more and more the "hippy era" of the 1960's-70's. Many students at BHS aren't afraid to show their "hippiness" by their way of thinking, acting and dressing. From flannels and Birkenstocks to clogs and peace signs, the fashion's back, but is the state of mind?

Some students quoted on the attitudes and styles in BHS. Heather LeBlanc explains that in the 60's and 70's people were environmentally aware and spoke what they felt. In the 80's, our country became more health conscious and conservative. She feels that in the 90's, "People feel they can go back to the 60's ideas to make a statement and stick up for themselves." As a new student, Megan Dinnell feels that the prejudiceness in this school is not socially acceptable in other places. Megan says, "People don't realize exactly what they are implicating by their racist jokes and comments." Cora Werner says, "I think that people should understand what they wear, and not just wear it because their friends are."

R. Fitch

Class Of '95

Your junior year is one of the hardest and most challenging years. Juniors have many important decisions and responsibilities that take place in their life, such as if, when, and where they are going to college, if they are going to take the SAT, and trying to make the prom the best ever for the seniors.

As a junior you realize high school memories are important. You start to remember all those great times putting the float together, class meetings, and those special moments you shared with your classmates. Its a time to make the best of your last years in high school.

The sophomore class has been moving upward. They have made up a big part in our school spirit along with our school activities. Being in the middle describes it all for the sophomores-too young to hang around with the big dogs, but still old enough to work their way to the top.

One thing they have to look forward to is getting their driver's license. They also begin to look into the future and begin raising money for their junior prom. Jennifer Rockwood, class president, stated, "We worked hard on our fundraisers this year knowing we have prom to look forward to next year." This year's sophomore class went all out. They sold Bulldog tattoos, raffled off a V.C.R., and also pulled together in selling jewelry and candy in a class wide fundraiser.

The freshman have experienced the many changes every student must go through when going from middle school to high school. Unlike other classes at BHS, the freshmen do not have the benefit of experience as much as their elders. Midy Gunter says, "You have more privileges, and you meet more people."

Freshman class officers have worked hard on many projects to raise money for their class. Lynn Ann Walsman is president with Nikki Kirschner as vice president. Brenda Glaub is secretary and Amy Flodder takes care of the money as treasurer. Amy says, "You feel welcome here because everyone is more grown up."

The freshman class has much to look forward to. Although this year may not seem too interesting, the best years are yet to come!

The year we have all been waiting for has finally arrived. But what is all the senior hoopla all about? We decided to take a look at a typical day in the life of a senior. From hallway breaks to calculus, we've got the class of 94 covered from head to toe.

Class Of '94

Can you believe that it was only four years ago when we entered BHS as naive freshmen? Now, we are the well-educated, cultured seniors and it's time to move on. But before we leave the halls of immaturity and irresponsibility to enter the world of adulthood lets reflect on those wonderful years at good ol' BHS.

Do you remember getting pushed around as freshmen? Just like the time Matt Saner was thrown head first into the trash can. Or what about "Crazy Train" ... enough said. Oh yeah, do you remember all the pre-prom parties our junior year? Talk about class bonding. And how we left our mark as seniors with "Operation Bonsai."

Every senior has his/her own special memories either here at school or out on the town. Flipping through these pages hopefully will bring back those special moments.

They say that you can't teach "old dogs new tricks" but that doesn't apply to this BHS faculty.

The year of 94 not only included new faces in the guidance office, Miss Stout and Miss Blum, but also in the English and Math departments, Miss McKinney and Mr. Heppner. The faculty also had to learn about technical preparation, which is the new state curriculum. It had to contend with the new technology that Mr. Hochstetler presented.

The faculty and staff have once again proven to be very special. Students, believe it or not, do appreciate all the hard work and effort. Last but not least the senior class would like to extend a special thank you and farewell. We will miss you.

Boys Cross Country

Stops At Nothing

This year the boys cross country team once again dazzled Coach Raver with an awesome season. Leadership was found not by a sole person, but by each runner. Ben Dickey, Josh Goldsmith, and Troy Riehle, all returning runners, dominated the races. Chris Ronnebaum, Ben Roell, and newcomers Michael Menser and Nathan Pohlman rounded the team off with some very consistent running.

When practice started a few weeks before the beginning of school, high anticipations for the team were already in the making. When it came to the team's sights on what they wanted to accomplish, it was all business. Everyone pushed each other in practice very hard. The teams were extremely successful. First winning the Greensburg Invitational and then the ElAC. When it was time for sectional, the boys demolished all the teams despite the course's wet and muddy condition. Then with the sectional title under their belt, the team went to the Regionals and finished an impressive third place.

The boys then went on to Indianapolis and ran a great race in the Semi-State placing 13th. Although the team had wished to advance to the State finals, the season was in no way disappointing.

Following on that line of success, the girls finished second in the EIAC for the second straight season. They also set a new BHS ladies cross country record with 81 wins.

Angie Menser, senior, was the #1 runner for the ladies. She finished first in EIAC, county, and sectional tournaments. She advanced all the way to semi-state where she couldn't run due to an illness. She was considered one of the top 10 women runners in the state. Angie was named MVP for the fourth straight

To The Last

Count

This year's varsity football team could be nicknamed the "Cardiac Kids". Three of this year's four wins came within the last seconds of the game. Ironically, all three last second wins came at the home field.

Although the team fell short of their sectional champion expectations, there were many bright spots in the 4-6 season. For the first time since 1988, the Bulldogs won Homecoming over Franklin County 23-21 with a last second touchdown by Corey Bischoff. Another highlight was playing East Central in the Hoosier Dome. Although the Dogs played a super second half they couldn't over-

Netters

Have A

Winning Season

New faces. New coach. New season. New records. The lady Bulldogs Netters had a very successful season. They achieved their goals of capturing Ripley County, Conference, and Sectional champ titles. On top of these victories, the team, which consisted of five seniors, four juniors, and one sophomore, held a winning record, the first time in three years. With the winning record came a 15 game winning streak full of superstitions.

The lady Bulldogs always wore a blue and white polka-dotted hair scruncher. Every team that was defeated, the girls would tie colored ribbons onto the scrunchers. Individual superstitions varied from the food eaten before the game to slapping hands with a player on the court. Superstitions or no superstitions, nothing would have stopped this team from going to regionals,

Sweet 16

How Sweet

It Is

What do you call a 20-5 record, Conference Champions, Sectional and Regional Winners? The answer is the Batesville boys' basketball team accomplishments. Under the direction of rookie coach Melvin Siefert, the team pulled together and worked hard to compile a successful season. The team lost three big games consecutively and after a long talk the guys regrouped and went on a winning rampage. When sectional time came, the team was ready to play intense ball.

Winning the first game over South Decatur 72-61 advance the Bulldogs to the second round against conference rival Greensburg. The Dogs came out strong to take the lead early and never looked

With New Coach

This year a new person was introduced to the Batesville Wrestling program; it was head coach Eric Heppner. The coach did a wonderful job of taking over this position by sending eight to regional and two to semi-state.

The Bulldogs had a young varsity squad this year consisting of mainly underclassmen and only three seniors. The team had tough competition throughout the season. When tournament time came, the Bulldogs fell short as a team. They placed third in the sectionals due to a poor consolation round for third and fourth places.

of Stephanie Bergman and Kendra Koch while Amy Vonderheide and Lynn Ann Walsman held down the number two doubles position.

The Bulldogs had a very hard time playing their matches due to rain. They constantly had to play make-up matches. Even though they had all the trouble with rain delays, they did win the Shelbyville Invitational. They beat East Central, 3-2, and Shelbyville, 5-0 to earn the championship.

In sectionals, they advanced to the second round by beating Oldenburg Academy, 3-2, but unfortunately lost in the second round to Lawrenceburg. By Ben Bellman

Prom Night

The junior-senior prom was conducted on May 14. The Theme of the prom was "Up Where We Belong." The public was invited to view the decorations from 6-8pm. The colors were red, black, and white. A white walkway led the attendants onto a black-white checkered floor. Above them was a parachute with lighting behind it to give a romantic look. At 11:00, the prom court was announced with seniors Eric Vicars as king and Angie Niehoff as Queen. Prince and Princess were juniors Quentin Bishoff and Kelly Moeller. The after prom was conducted at the Primary school with the theme of "Cheeseburger in Paradise." It included many games and cash prizes for those who attended.

-By Sarah Blaum and Stacy Bishop

Above: Crowding on the floor to get in one last dance, prom goers enjoy the romantic evening together. Prom '94 was the year for the floor length dress with a mid-thigh slit. Some men decided to be a little wild and instead of wearing the tux tradition, they choose to wear combat boots and shorts. And of course, many different styles of hats.

Where We Belong

Somewhere under the stars tonight
The lights are going down.
Our wildest dreams are taking flight;
They'll never touch the ground.

And in each eye there is a glow
On every face, a smile.
To a time far from the world we know
We each escape awhile.

And all around the world may fall
But hurt us; it never will.
For we are in the midst of it all
But yet, we're standing still.

And as we glance into the eyes
Of the people standing by
It is that we realize
These memories will not die.

And when the night falls, as it must,
We'll hear the final song
And remember the love that lifted us
Up where we belong.

— Angie Niehoff

Will

You Remember?

Old days are gone,
Yet the moment lives
on

In this space in time,
I remember. . .

The games that we played

The friendships we made

These reflections of mine,

I remember. . .

The truths that we hold

The stories untold

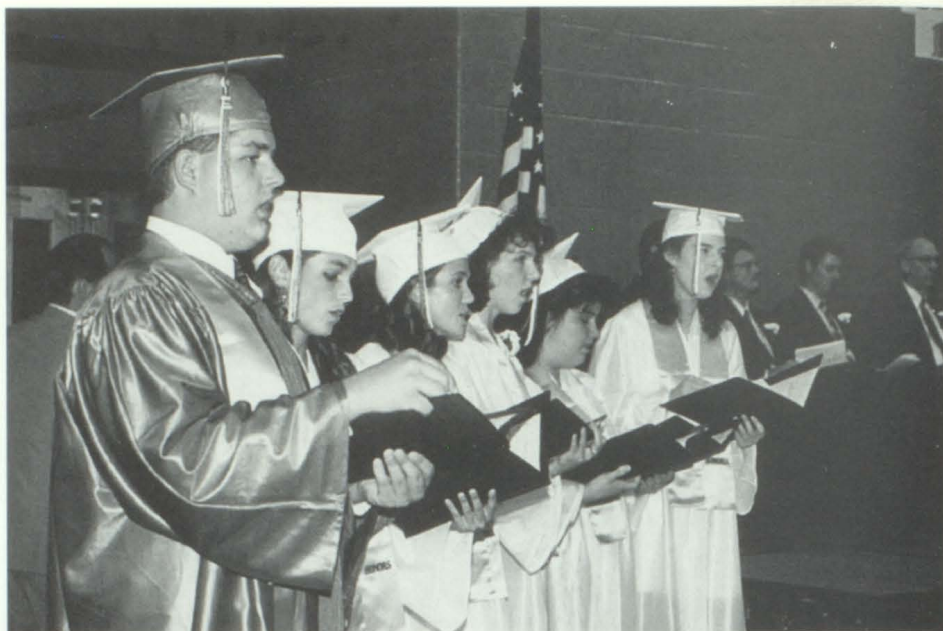

To each are their own
I'll remember. . .

The days that will pass
If the memories still last

Will burn like a flame

Will you remember?

G raduation Day

June 15, 1994 was the day all seniors waited for, but also the day none of them wanted to see.

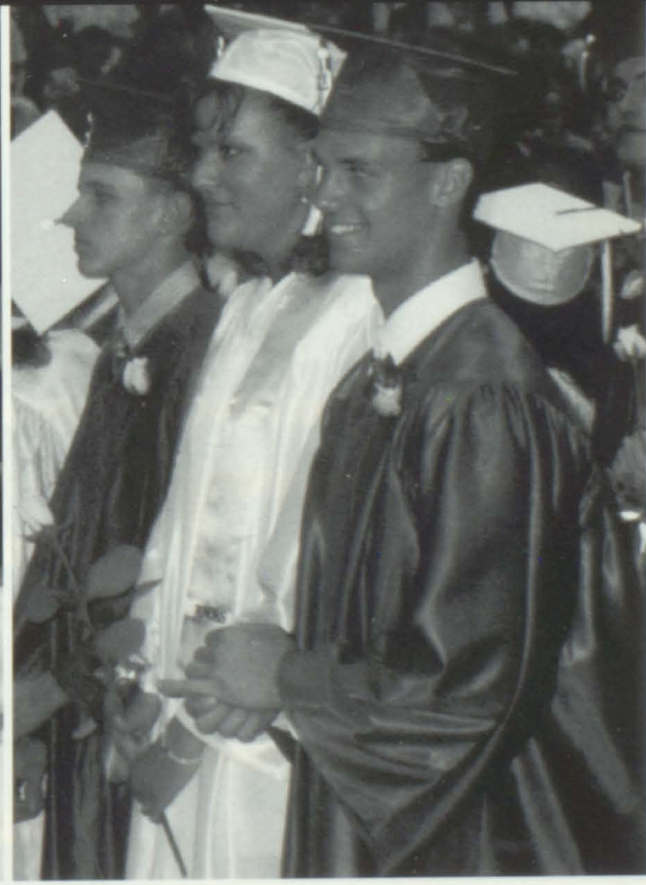

When Principal Sagester promoted the 123 students to alumni status, shouts of enthusiasm filled the gym. Yet, one could also hear the cries of those who would miss it all.

— Brady Lacey and Angie Kanning

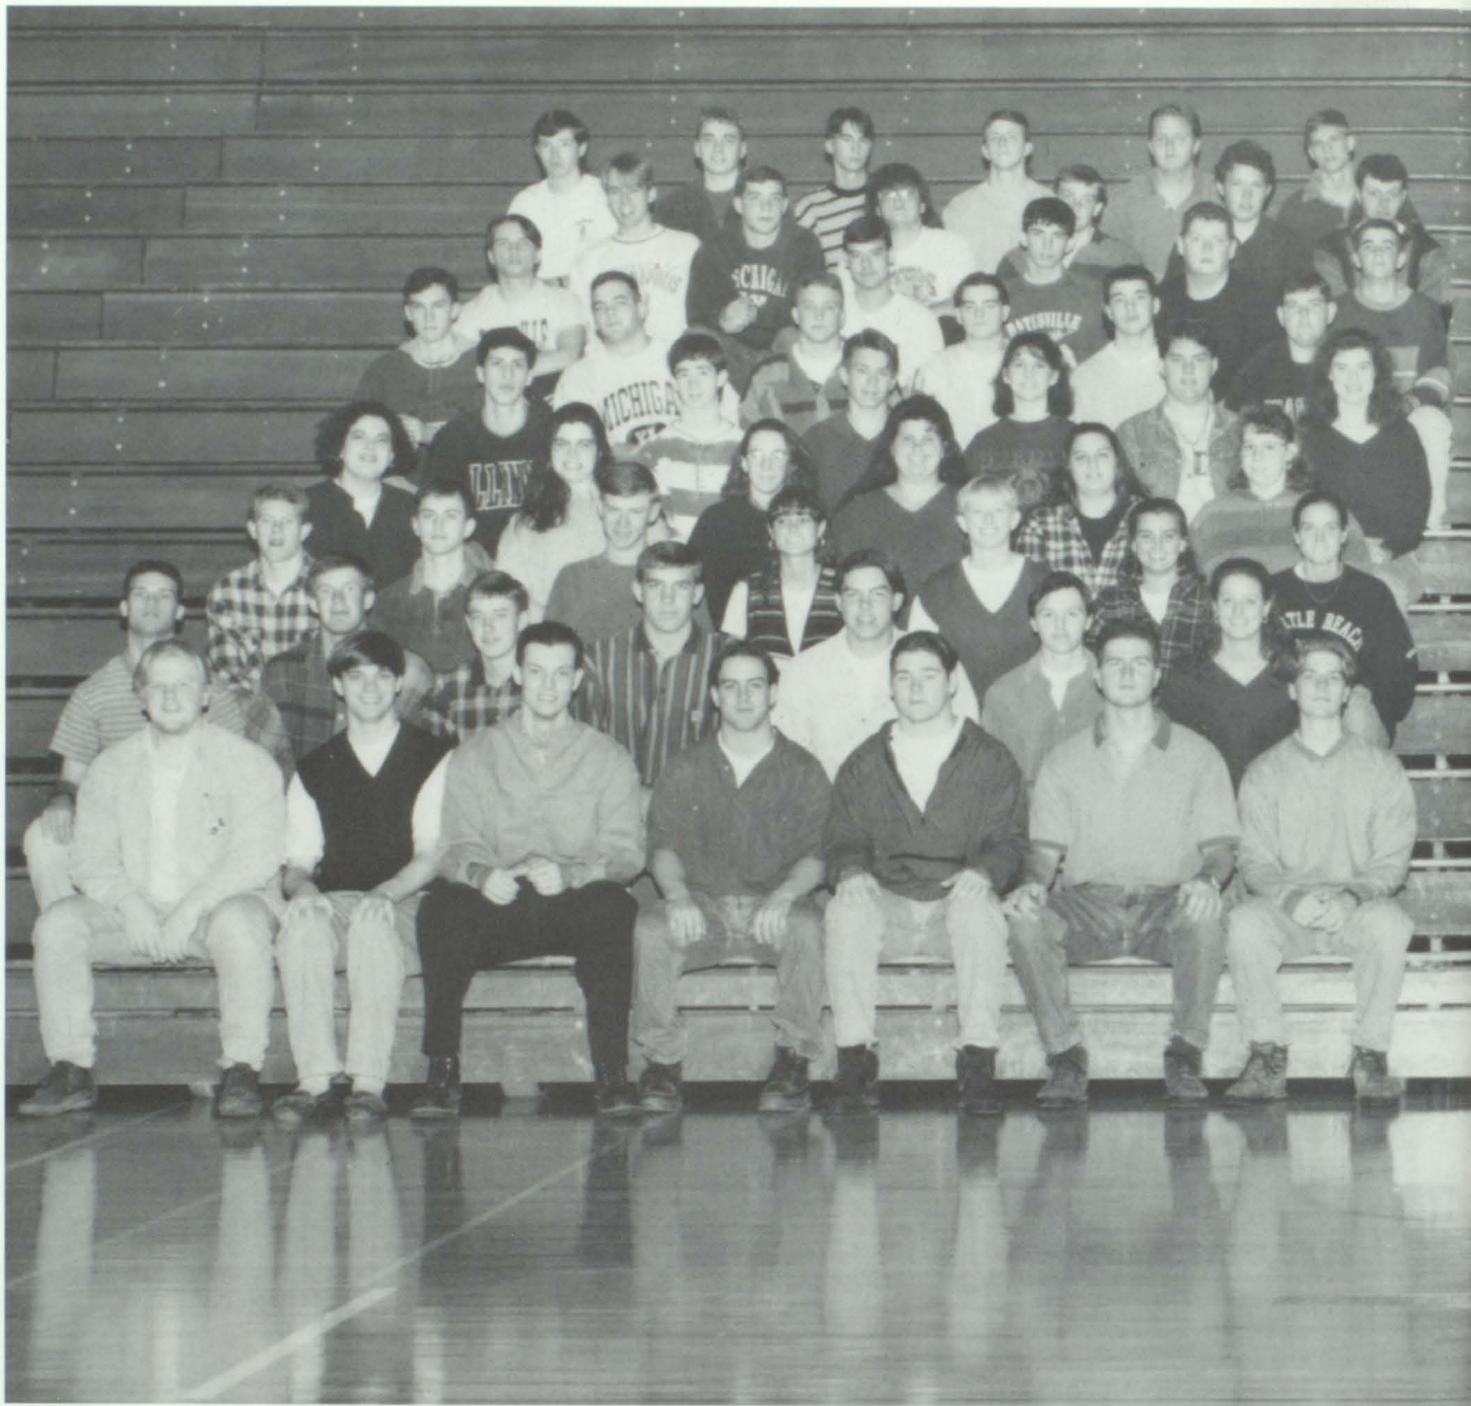

Above: Flipping of the caps is one symbol of the end of a four year high school career. Members of the new alumni throw their caps in pure excitement to finally be done and on a new road to college or to the work force.

Dedicated to Service

Mr. Art Brebberman, Math teacher, taught at BHS for 30 years. Mr Brebberman decided to retire in June, 1994.

While teaching at BHS, Mr. Brebberman coached baseball, football and golf.

"BHS is an excellent place to send kids for a good education. The community is an excellent place to raise children," said Mr. Brebberman.

Mr. Brebberman has been married for 36 years and has 2 sons and 1 daughter.

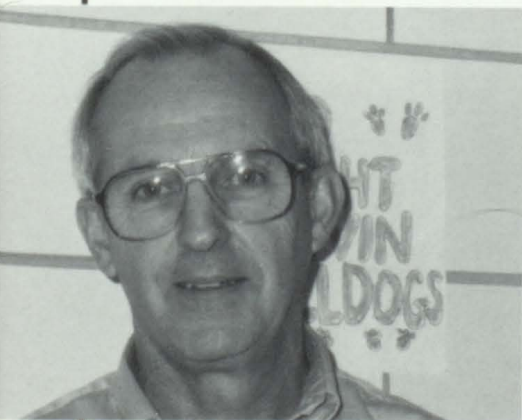

One of Mr. Brebberman's fondest memories of BHS is winning the Hall of Fame Tournament.

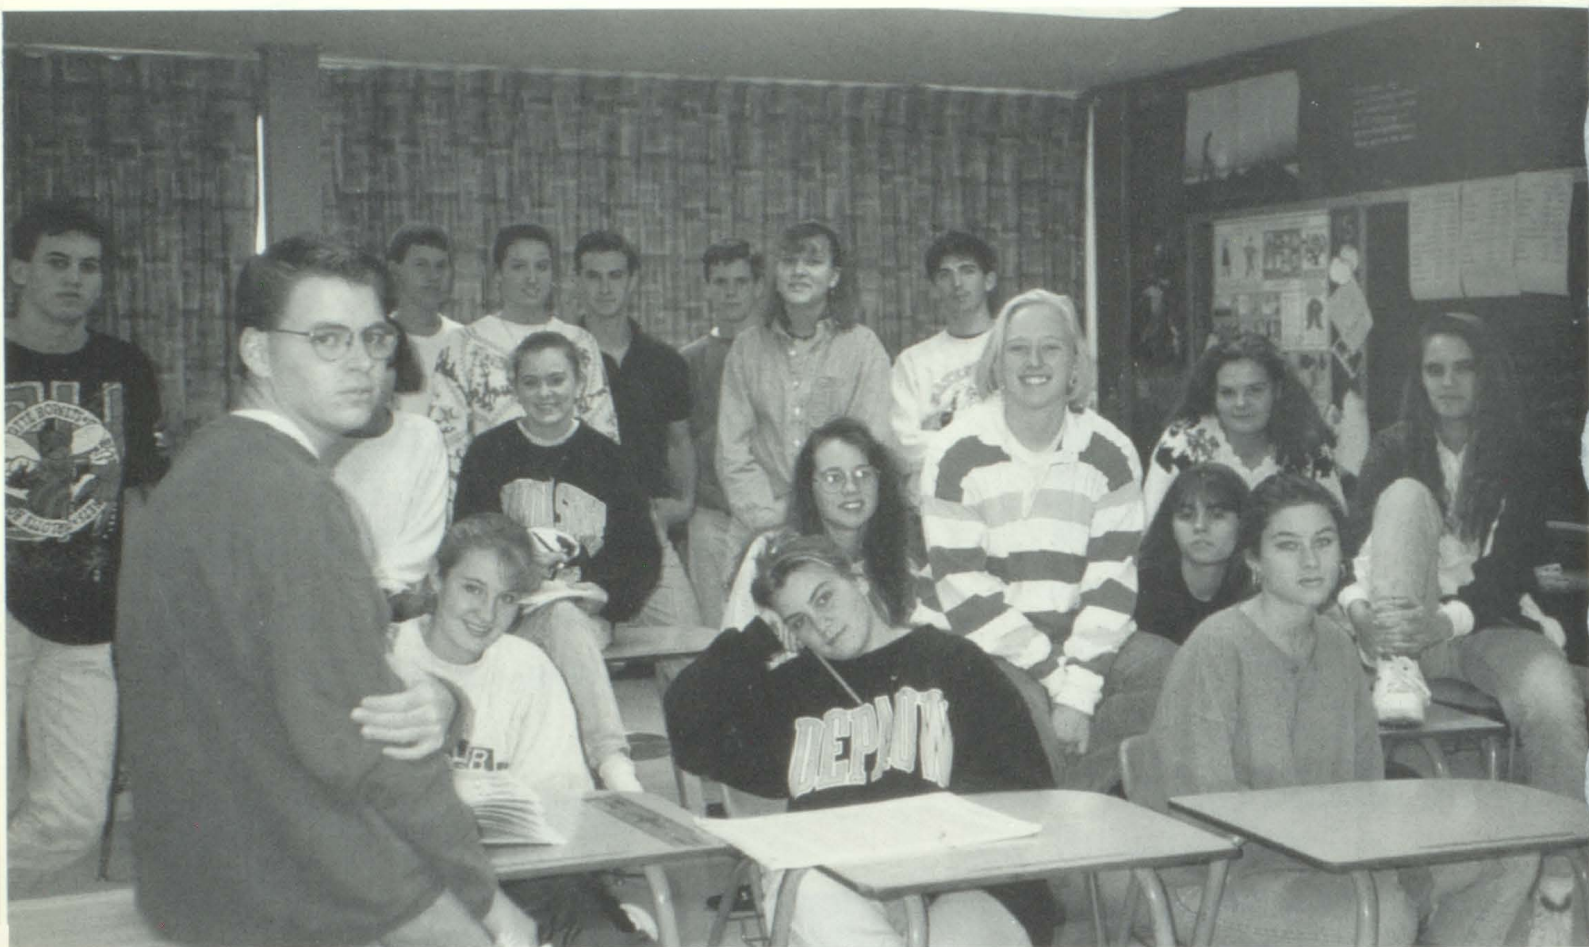

He attended Napoleon High School and attended Franklin College. While in college, he played many sports including football and baseball. He majored in Physical education, health and double majored in math.

Mr. Brebberman earned his masters degree at Indiana University in Education.

We will miss you Mr. Brebberman. We wish you the best of happiness in your retirement.

- By Sarah Blaum and Stacey Bishop

Thanks!

I'll Never Forget You

Dear Staff,

For some people, the words in this headline can be spoken pretty easily, and in just about any situation. But for myself, especially in this instance, I definitely mean every inch of their definition with the truest sentiment.

Perhaps it is because the Bulldog staff of 1994 was my first annual staff to advise. Or perhaps it is because of the many lessons that you taught me. Either way, the 1994 Bulldog staff will be very dear to my heart.

I could list a thousand lessons that I learned throughout the year from your group. The lessons range from hall passes, to staff dynamics, to advising techniques. However, the two most important, and the simplest, was that of learning how to trust and how to depend on you.

Likewise, I could spend a page telling of the comic and horrific stories that the year contained. You definitely provided comic relief when needed, and, ultimately, kept me on watch. But overall, you were pretty easy on me. Thanks for never wearing the hockey mask.

Therefore, I would like to wrap this up with some of my favorite pictures. So thank you, and I will never forget you.

- Sincerely,
Miss McKinney

Top: Who is that guy? Senior Butch Laker has an evil twin lurking in the hall. This rare photo brought several tears of laughter.

Colophon

The 1994-95 Annual was published by Newsfoto Publishing Company, 2027 Industrial Boulevard in San Angelo, Texas, 76902. 250 copies were printed and sold at $20.00 a piece. Special thanks to Lance Baker, our wonderful representator and Vicki Sanders, the southern voice on the other end. Thanks for all of your help and all of the visits.

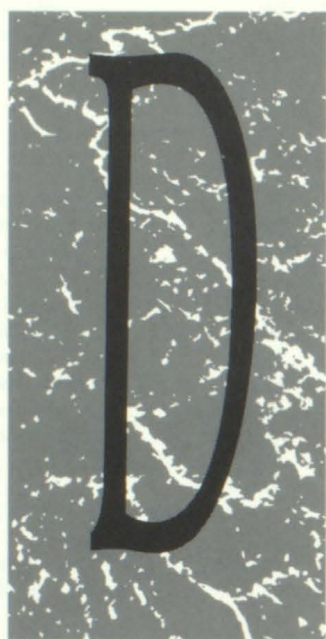

The Annual was designed by Kelli Tuggle, Brian Schwegman and Amy Vonderheide. And Becky Fitch completed all of the typing. Thanks everyone.

The cover is lithograph, 2 colors and its size is $7\frac{3}{4} \times 10\frac{1}{2}$. The captions are 8 point and the headlines are Malibu bold. The paper is enamel and consist of 152 pages.

Pictures were supplied by Krider Photography, Herald Tribune (Brian Helvie), Mr. Koors and student photographers. Thanks for always being there for us.

The editor-in-chief was Kelli Tuggle. Your creativity will be missed. The business manager was Kathy Raver. Without you, this book would not have been possible. The adviser was Miss Deidre McKinney.

Thanks to everyone who worked so hard on making this the best Annual possible. See you next year.

estiny is where we are led through dreams we live. Drive wakes us up every morning, and dedication keeps us going through all these things that we, as members of the student body, must tackle. We've grown, laughed and cried and learned a little about each other and a lot about ourselves. We've shared destinys, dreams, drives and dedications. But because of this, we'll each go a different direction. May the direction you head be truly your own.

-Kelli Tuggle

Far Left: Cheering the men's basketball team at Hinkle Field House in Indianapolis, Matt Weberding, junior and the rest of the fans enjoy the excitement.

Left: Smiles of relief that it's all over, Becky Fitch, and Jennifer Westerfeld, seniors, enjoy their last day as BHS students.
